

Flashpoint for the Intelligence Community

Intelligence teams have access to an abundance of data, but often lack the tools to filter, analyze and triage the data effectively. Data overload causes information oversight and delays the intelligence cycle. To protect national security interests, The IC needs relevant information from a diverse mix of sources, in areas of interest worldwide, including the Asia Pacific, the Middle East, Africa, and Europe.

Flashpoint delivers access to the most extensive range of global sources available and streamlines intelligence cycles with enrichments like geospatial AI, threat detection, and multilingual translation. Data is available via our intuitive web-based platform or API (Data-as-a-Service).

Intelligence Community solutions include:

- Extensive data collections and technical intelligence
- Real-time, geospatial social media data, and intuitive analytical functionality
- Support from best-in-class intelligence experts

Key initiatives we support:

NEAR-PEER NATION STATE RESEARCH

- Use open and closed sources to assess potential threats from nation-state adversaries

TERRORISM INTELLIGENCE

- Access extensive social networks and illicit discussion channels to identify and monitor planning, recruitment tactics, and campaigns.

GEOPOLITICAL RISK RESEARCH

- Get information from the ground via global regional data sources—including social networks and defense forums across the Asia Pacific, Europe, the Middle East, and Africa, to better understand geopolitical moves and motives.

SUPPLY CHAIN MONITORING

- Identify risks to supply chains with real-time updates about emerging and ongoing situations in locations worldwide.

MIS & DISINFORMATION RESEARCH

- Investigate and monitor campaigns to mitigate their impact and keep governments and the public better informed.

CYBER NETWORK DEFENSE

- Prevent breaches and protect your assets by gaining a holistic understanding of the tools, tactics, and procedures used to target your organization. Analyze malware and actionable indicators of compromise for network defense.

This comprehensive solution set delivers access to everything Flashpoint has to offer to support Intelligence teams—from award-winning software, to services, and customer success.
